15:41:08 From Mala Muralidharan to Everyone: BEAD $$$$ needs to serve the unserved and unserved first and Anchors are lower in priority

15:41:54 From Ilana Lowery to Everyone: @Mala Muralidharan does that hold true for DEA?

15:42:33 From Ilana Lowery to Everyone: And @Mala Muralidharan, are schools consider anchors?

15:43:25 From Mala Muralidharan to Everyone: DEA rules are different... bridging the digital divide does not apply to Community Anchors broadband but adoption

15:43:39 From Nicole Umayam to Everyone:BEAD funding asks states to identify and find solutions to serve all unserved households (under 25/3), underserved households (under 100/20), and Community Anchor Institutions (CAIs) which includes schools, libraries, health clinics, health centers, hospitals, public safety entities, higher education institutions, public housing, or any community support organization that facilitates greater use of broadband by vulnerable populations.

15:44:18 From Mala Muralidharan to Everyone: Nicole said it well!!!

15:44:19 From Nicole Umayam to Everyone:As part of the BEAD Initial Proposal, states can make arguments for amending their definition of CAI as makes sense for Arizona's needs

15:44:31 From Erin Lorandos to Everyone: Reacted to "As part of the BEAD ..." with 👍

15:46:46 From Mala Muralidharan to Everyone: We are working towards building consortiums of schools and libraries for E-rate application as a precursor... if eventually we join hands to form one education network - my dream too Derek!

15:49:25 From Erin Lorandos to Everyone: I have to pop off a little early today - But I have a few updates for this group:

        1) We're continuing to share the ACA/DEI Listening Sessions, and are especially excited for the covered-population focused conversations this week!

        2) I'm now fully certified to train trainers on ACRC. Meaning, I can train folks to proctor the ACRC. We hope to explore training library staff to offer ACRC cert in their libraries, especially the Digital Literacy module!

        3) Janet and I are co-hosting a hybrid telehealth event with PCPL branch in Arivaca on Thursday. We'll be sharing telehealth resources (Digital Navigators, etc) and also a hand-on demo of the kits in the library. Here's the link to the zoom. FYI, this will be for library staff, CHW's/Promatoras, and patrons to be introduced to the resources!
